

In-house courses for personal injury and clinical negligence lawyers

Our experienced forensic accountants offer free in-house training courses tailored specifically for personal injury and clinical negligence lawyers

We offer practical in-house training courses to help build your understanding of calculating losses in personal injury and clinical negligence claims. Led by our experienced forensic accountants, we structure the training around case studies and personal experiences.

During the training, you'll undertake calculations based on example case studies while we provide guidance throughout on suggested approaches. We can also adapt our courses to meet your specific needs.

Our training courses and course materials are provided free of charge at a time and location convenient to you, for groups of six or more. Our courses provide guidance on loss of earnings and loss of pension in personal injury and clinical negligence cases and therefore can contribute towards your continuing competence.

Courses

Minimum group size: six

Loss of pension

- Identifying different types of pension
- Changes to schemes in recent years
- Approach to calculating losses in different types of schemes
- Other complications affecting the pension loss calculation

Duration: 1 ½ - 2 hours
Minimum group size: six

Experienced team to support you

At Evelyn Partners, our forensic accountants have the specialist expertise to minimise the complexity involved in quantifying losses in claims, with particular focus on the calculation of loss of earnings and pension.

For over 25 years our team has worked with lawyers on cases requiring forensic accounting input, including preparing reports and quantifying losses in personal injury and clinical negligence claims.

We can act for the claimant, defendant or on a single joint basis and give evidence in court and arbitrations as well as assist at mediations.

Acting as experts

We act as expert accountants in personal injury and clinical negligence cases covering:

- Loss of earnings to the employed individual in complex cases where career progression through ranks is likely, such as in the army, NHS, police or teaching professions
- Loss of pension in final salary schemes
- Loss of earnings to the self-employed
- Loss of dependency claims

No cost to you if you don't instruct us

We are happy to make an initial assessment of any claim and will only charge for this service if you then instruct us. If you don't instruct us, we won't charge you and will return your documentation.

Advice proportionate to the claim

For personal injury and clinical negligence cases requiring a forensic accountant, we will make an assessment to ascertain whether it is appropriate to prepare calculations along with a letter of advice for use in negotiations, or produce a full CPR compliant report which can be used in court proceedings. We can provide estimates of costs and work to pre-agreed budgets and timetables, keeping those who instruct us fully aware of our progress throughout the course of each case.
